JAMES HALLIDAY "TOP 100"

Suckfizzle Sauvignon Blanc Semillon 2007

Stuart Pym has been making this ground-breaking wine since 1997. Now into its second decade, the wine is rightfully regarded as the region's benchmark.

96 POINTS:

James Halliday "TOP 100"

"This is a 59.5/40.5% blend, whole bunch-pressed, briefly settled, then fermented in 100% new French oak. At the conclusion of fermentation, 50% is transferred to older oak. Deep green-gold, it is exceptionally complex, with multiple layers of toasty oak and ripe fruit, yet with a magical spine of citrusy acidity that gives the wine great length. Drink to 2014 with bouillabaisse."

94 POINTS:

Nick Stock

"This is one of the most consistent wines at the high end of Margaret River sauvignon blanc/semillon blends. It shows plenty of new wood, which is deeply woven into powerful and - in the case of the '07 - ripe and weighty toasted hazelnuts, cashew, lemon peel, green apple, grapefruit and fresh green leaves on the nose. The palate's sturdy and carries ample flesh amid punchy acid structure; handy balance and a fresh, dry finish. Very complex and probably not for everyone - more savoury and less about fruit."
